Renewable Energy: Going Green in Jefferson County

Incorporating sustainable practices into your business is one of the most powerful ways to make a difference, not just to your own bottom line (although it certainly helps!), but also to your community – both now and for the future. Now is a great time to turn your business green, by adopting environmentally-friendly business practices and more!

Come and learn about the new energy economy and how to finance and obtain advice on transitioning your business into a “green business.” A few of the ideas that will be presented include:

- Going paperless
- Saving on Energy or finding alternative energy means (solar panels)
- Reusing and recycling existing materials (MillerCoors uses recycled glass for new bottles)

Presenter: Emily Templin Lesh, Green Jobs Program Coordinator, Colorado Department of Labor and Employment. As the Green Jobs Coordinator, Emily collaborates with the Governor's Energy Office (GEO), and other state agencies to plan, implement, and coordinate economic and workforce development initiatives related to Colorado's New Energy Economy.

When: Thursday, Sept 16th, 11:30 -1:00 p.m.

Where: Wheat Ridge Recreation Center, 4005 Kipling St., Wheat Ridge, 80033

Cost: $15 and includes lunch

Presented by: Jefferson County Workforce Center
